

Obama, why hurt me for creating jobs?

Why risk your life savings and sacrifice all of your leisure time starting a business and employing people, when if you finally "make it" you have to give the fruits of your labor to those who don't labor very much at all?

This short letter is written out of frustration. I am an angry entrepreneur who has created many jobs at my own expense and thus, have paid many payroll taxes and income taxes (outside of what I make and pay myself). I love our country and weep during the national anthem, because of the opportunity that exists within our borders. However, it is frustrating when a well spoken person can threaten the fabric of what makes our country great.

Reader, would you like to risk all of your money and time to start a business, that even if you are one of the few who succeed, you have to give over half to people who don't try anything at all?

Our country is founded on the belief that opportunity is available to all, but not handouts. Of course, when someone is incapacitated, we should all help out. But we cannot be a great country awarding those who do not contribute, when they are able!

That is what OBAMA is suggesting. Unless you are one of the people getting the handouts, you should be seriously concerned.

When your employer has to pay more of their profit in taxes, they will not be able to invest as much in new opportunities, product lines, etc. and thus they will not create new jobs. As a business owner, I assure you this is the case as I am not taking risks right now in consideration of the fact that next year things may be different if Obama wins. I'm even concerned about the ripple effect his ideas cause and fear possible layoffs from reduced sales to other business owners.

I have a challenge for you Mr. Obama, create some jobs from a company you create yourself, with your own money. Be like the many brave men and women who quit their job and give self-employment a try. After you have walked in those boots, and thus have navigated the storms of business ownership, made your company profitable, then your perspective and beliefs may be in line with what this country was FOUNDED upon.

Then if you are able to pull it off, and you become successful enough to make 1/4 million, you will have created many jobs. Now, after all that, you have to pay very high company taxes on the profit from your risk, sacrifice, sweat and hard work. Then also pay personal taxes. And when watching politicians on TV, you will here them say, be patriotic and share the wealth with others. Meanwhile, they are sitting in leather chairs, taking no risk, and making our decisions. How would you feel? You were patriotic and produced for the country when you took the risk and made it happen.

Why did our founding fathers go to war with the British? To claim independence from a king who wanted to tax us too much money (less than 10% total). Obama wants over 50%. Thousands of men and women died to give us this freedom and to gain our independence, and now our own residents are running for office and asking for 5x as much in taxes as that king did. Our founding fathers and all those soldiers who laid down their life must be rolling in their grave...

Obama, You are not a producer, you are a spender. Your perspective is not in line with what CREATES economy in this world...but instead, what takes from it. Be a giver through production, no through taxation. That is my belief...and my own family pays the price of my long hours away living this cause.

Obama's Incentive Plan
Monthly Sales Of Widgets	Commission Per Widget
Sell 101 and up	Earn $15 each (less 55% per widget given to those who did not try to sell any themselves) Net After Handout Given - $7
Sell 76 - 100	Earn $11 each
Sell 51 - 75	Earn $8 each
Sell 26 - 50	Earn $6 each
Sell 11 - 25	Earn $5 each
Sell 0 - 10	Earn $1 each (plus $8 per widget redistribution as handout from top performers)

Mr. Obama, would this commission chart incent you to become a "top performer"? Would you want to make it to the "101 sold" level? I would hope not. Then why are you proposing such a plan to our entire country?

The entrepreneurs and risk takers create the opportunities for the employees. How dare you excessively tax them for their bravery and willingness to "risk it" for others. They and their family were "taxed" enough while struggling to make it to the "successful rung" on the ladder.

I know there is much I may not understand, but I do know the pain taxes have on businesses who are trying to succeed and provide opportunity. Mr. Obama, do you understand that pain?
